

The Weiler / Erb Residence Above and Beyond Plan Review

Wendy Weiler and Bob Erb hired Accessibility Design to conduct a plan review for an addition to their home. They were concerned not only with the access and space planning of the new area, but also the vertical access to various levels of the home.

Searching for the Right Product

Incorporating an elevator into the design was essential to their solution. With Accessibility Design's knowledge of products and vendors, Wendy and Bob not only found answers to their initial questions and help with the design, but were connected with a quality vendor and guided through the process of product purchase and installation.

“ It really helped to get alternative ideas from a design team that thinks “outside-the-box”. Accessibility Design’s placement and product recommendations (of the elevator) really pushed our design to another level of access.”
